Dear John,

Thank you for your interest in our website. As a matter of fact we are planning a redesign in the coming year. Yours looks very good. I like the video feature. The tour seems to work with Firefox here (had to update Adobe).

Looking forward to seeing your church on my next visit to Brighton.

Every blessing,

Fr William Pearsall

Dear Father I recently visited your church and was overwhelmed by the spirituality and beauty of your church. I looked at your website for inspiration as I am the website designer of our parish church in Brighton St Mary Magdalen Church. I liked the look of your church tour webpage and I decided to design a similar one on our website. I hope you do not mind the similarity. Please view: <http://www.magdalenbrighton.net/churchtour.html> For some reason my one does not work in Firefox. Help would be most appreciated if at all possible. Yours sincerely John White

I am writing from California, USA. I went to your website on my ancestor hunt. I wanted to see a little of where my family came from. The church is beautiful and your website was so helpful to me. I am an ancestor of the Hambroughs who built Steephill Castle in Vetrnor, Isle of Wight. My mothers last name was Hambrough. I have recently discovered the wonderful story of Mother Ricarda who was baptised at your church and later became the Nun who saved so many Italian Jews. I love knowing that a relative of my mothers was so amazing and wonderful. I feel a connection to your church just because my ancestors went there, or at least I think they did. My Grandfather, Oscar Worsley Hambrough and Mother Ricarda were first cousins, but I am sure they never knew each other. I just felt like sharing that I love knowing all of this and I will try hard to follow this story as best I can from California.

Good afternoon John,

From one website designer, www.wealdweb.co.uk, to another!

I have added a link to the St Mary Magdalene website from both the relevant church album page:

<http://www.roughwood.net/ChurchAlbum/EastSussex/Brighton/BrightonStMaryMagdalene2005.htm>

and from the relevant page on the other large website I manage, Sussex On-line Parish Clerks:

<http://www.sussex-opc.org/index.php?p=185&k=695&t=Church>

Hopefully these will generate some traffic to the website for you! Reciprocal links are always appreciated!

Kind regards,

Mark Collins

Dear Mr. John White,

We thank you for your e-mail of August 12, 2009 in which you express interest to establish a link with Vatican Internet Website.

We noticed that you had already done so. However, I inform you that the authorization to create a link to the Vatican Internet Website www.vatican.va has to be requested to the entitled office to: ufficio-internet@net.va

Thanking you for your collaboration, I send you

Best regards

Thanks John for sharing these links and very impressive that you have designed them - they are very user friendly and nice to look at and I could find my way round very easily

Best wishes and Happy Season of Pentecost to you

Christine

Dear John,

Thank you for your e-mail and the link to your very interesting website.

We hold a small collection of geological specimens in the natural history section here at Britannia House and this does include a very small fossil - they are found very easily in certain spots around the Islands.

I'm afraid I know very little about geology and plant fossils in particular! However, we sell an interesting little book called "Rocks and Fossils of the Falkland Islands" (£9.95) and a colour A3 leaflet (£2.50) and could send you either of these if you are interested.

Best regards,

Leona.

Leona Roberts,
Museum Manager.
